Woodfall has been a supporter of Fairtrade for many years and this learning is now fully embedded into our curriculum. Becoming a Fairtrade School means joining a worldwide movement, where young people learn that, whatever their age, that they have the power to make a difference in the world. We currently hold the highest award, 'The Fair achievers', and each year we build on the children's experiences and past knowledge, often incorporating other global issues such as poverty, sustainable goals and children's rights.

We work closely with Neston Fairtrade Group

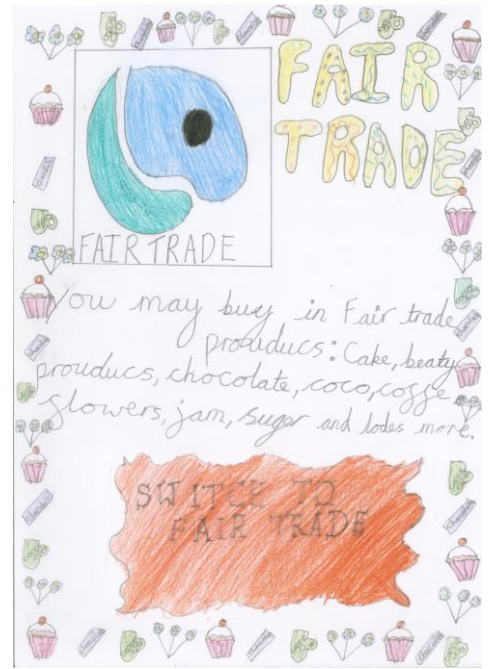

Creating a soundtrack to depict different moments from 'Changa and The Chocolate factory,' a story about child slavery.

WALT: To sequence the journey of tea from field to cup

Planting	Picking	Weighing
First job is to plant tea bushes called 'caneola buranica'	Next, the tea is picked (Picked) then it is taken to a BLM truck	The BLM truck drives the green leaves to a factory. They stay there for 20 hours.
Sorting	Drying	Tasting
When the tea powder is black and dry, it is sorted into big bins and small bins.	The chopped up leaves are then put into round driers. The second thing to happen is that the leaves are chopped into huge machines.	Finally a tea taster tastes a cup of tea and decides if it is lovely.
